Work in Porirua and Wellington

The gospel of the kingdom is being sown into the hearts of many. We have continued our private studies with up to eight individuals throughout the week. Please keep praying for them. If you'd like to know specifics, feel free to email us. Hopefully you'll understand that we are not sharing too many personal details of the ones we are studying with in a public newsletter such as this.

I'm about a quarter of the way through my Bible class (Wellington) and sermon series (Porirua) on the book of Galatians. I'm thoroughly enjoying the study. And it seems the students are too!

Brother Paul Carew preached his second sermon in Porirua. This is a big deal to our family, as when we first arrived in New Zealand over seven years ago, though he was among the eldest members of the church, he expressed being too nervous to even lead a prayer. Those who have known him longer than we have remember how he used to preach in the past. I'm glad he's regained confidence in himself—more so in the Lord and His gospel. As brother Kevin Moore said, "Paul is such a thoughtful and insightful communicator of God's word." And despite what it looks like in the photo, yes, there were people assembled when he preached. Apparently, people's dislike of sitting up front in church is a multi-cultural phenomenon.

I'm now working privately with Henk, one of the youngest Christians, as he is now developing his first sermon. He hopes to deliver it soon.

Clouded by Emotion: Studies on the Holy Spirit and Miracles

I'm happy to announce my latest book (description on bottom of next page). It's the result of six years of study. The manuscript is currently in the hands of a professional editor. If all goes well, and the Lord wills, it should be published within the next two months. Sign up at lancemosherbooks.com for specific updates.

Bear Valley Bible Institute-New Zealand

The lecture portion for my Technology for Christians course is complete. I've "released" the students to go finish their work. We will come back together on the 29th to hand in and discuss the final assignments. I'm looking forward to next month's course, which will be The New Testament Church. Nathan is about halfway through his Denominational Doctrines course. Enrollment is up, and we're grateful to have three full-time students and one part-time student.

Family News

Silas turned five last week! That means he is finished with kindy (preschool). He started school this week. We are homeschooling him. Reading is the current focus. He's pretty proud to have his mom as his teacher, and I've got to say he's pretty blessed.

We are planning on a quick trip to the mountains next week. Things have been very busy, and we haven't had much family time. We're looking forward to it!

We are grateful every day for our supporters. We couldn't be involved in the greatest work on earth without you all. Please keep praying for, encouraging, and supporting works like this. We love you all!

Clouded by Emotion: Studies on the Holy Spirit and Miracles

How many times have you asked questions about the Holy Spirit and miracles? How often were you given conflicting answers? Maybe it's because you've done what Lance did for a while—he asked friends, preachers, and the internet. Why do these important topics seem so confusing? It's because the study of the Holy Spirit and miracles has been...

CLOUDED by EMOTION

Let's ask the Scriptures.

Lance shares his findings from God's word in this easy-to-follow book. In Clouded by Emotion, the Bible lifts the clouds and answers questions on the identity of the Holy Spirit, the qualities and purposes of miracles, stories of miracles today, baptism with the Holy Spirit, apostolic succession, the gift of tongues, blasphemy of the Holy Spirit, the leading of the Holy Spirit, and more.

What questions about God's Spirit do you have?
