While our friends in the USA reported heat waves, we played in the snow. Thank you for your prayers.

Work in Porirua and Wellington

Each week in the Lord's work brings more opportunities. We have continued our Bible studies with five individuals. Three of them are counting the costs of discipleship. It's taking a while, but our prayer is that they will obey the gospel soon, knowing full well the importance of lifelong commitment. My studies with the Seventh-Day Adventist pastor have been amazing. He is very humble, and we are slowly working through some hefty studies. He admits that our studies have shown him some things—especially regarding sabbath-keeping—that he has never seen in his own Bible. He has a lot to think about.

It seems I report on it every month, but it has been great to watch the students become teachers. We have now heard another great lesson from Paul Carew. Grant Zou also brought a lesson on the Kingship of Christ. We look forward to a lesson from Max Marshall this coming Sunday on the prayer of Christ in John 17. Jay is now preaching nearly every week—either in the Hutt, in Wellington, or in Porirua. I preached on two questions this past Sunday: “What can we know about God without His word?” and “What is revealed to us about God only through His word?” I'm still also making my way through my class and sermon series through Galatians.

Clouded by Emotion: Studies on the Holy Spirit and Miracles

The announcement for my most recent book has been received well. Lots of excitement has been drummed up. I hope it lives up to people's expectations. More importantly, I pray I have taught the truth on such an important subject. If the Lord wills, it will be released in October. Preorders have begun at lancemosherbooks.com. I'd like to purchase copies for our supporters. Once it is released, let us know the address to have it sent to.

Bear Valley Bible Institute-New Zealand

I am nearly finished teaching through my course on the New Testament Church. My next course will be in October on The Life of Christ 2: Teachings: Sermon on the Mount, Parables, Judgment. Trevor Major will be teaching Church History next month, if the Lord wills. We are also working out plans for Bill Stewart to come and teach a short course on Revelation in October, and his wife Pam to teach a seminar for the ladies on Evangelist Women.

Family News

Our family spent three nights in Raetihi a couple of weeks ago. It is about a 40-minute drive to National Park and the base of Mounts Tongariro and Ruapehu. It snowed a couple of inches our first night there, so we were able to spend the next day in the snow. Silas loved it. It took Asher a while to “warm” up to it. After all, it was his first time to experience snow. We drove to nearby Whanganui on the third night and spent the evening with some brethren.

Silas is doing well in school. He has a fantastic teacher (his Mommy)! He is working his way through the alphabet. He can sound out words now. He is also learning the basics of math, though he’s been able to do simple addition and multiplication in his head for a while now. He figured that stuff out on his own!

Brother Jay Pahetogia and I are planning to make a trip this weekend to Rotorua to attend a couple of events for men in the church.

We love you all and are continually grateful for your help in our work. Please keep praying. God bless you.

Though Mount Doom is a hot lava pit in the movies, it was cold and snowy when we visited it. Here is the boys’ first snowman experience.
